

Federal Housing Finance Agency

Antonio White – Acting Director
Office of Congressional Affairs and Communication (OCAC)

As the Director of OCAC, Antonio leads and manages the agency’s efforts to communicate with the public, the FHFA workforce, members of media, industry and community stakeholder groups, and local, state and federal lawmakers. Antonio brings to the agency a robust experience in communications, public engagement and executive positioning matters spanning two presidential administrations, including service at the White House and U.S. Treasury during both the financial crisis and the COVID-19 pandemic recovery. White has also held senior communications and government affairs roles at the Gates Foundation and Bank of America, respectively, and has been publicly recognized by media and communications organizations as a leader in his field.

A proud native of Cleveland, OH, he earned a bachelor’s degree from Miami University and a master’s degree from Morgan State University.
