Re: Comments on Proposed Rulemaking Regarding Minority and Women Inclusion

Dear Mr. Pollard:

The Federal Home Loan Bank of Chicago (“FHLBC”) appreciates the opportunity to comment on the Federal Housing Finance Agency (“FHFA”) proposed rule on minority and women inclusion. The FHFA’s proposed regulations seek to implement Section 1116 of the Housing and Economic Recovery Act of 2008 (“HERA”). The FHFA has invited comments on all aspects of the proposed regulations; therefore, FHLBC respectfully submits the following comments for your consideration.

I. General Comments

Refining the Legal Standard in HERA “To the Maximum Extent Possible”

Proposed Sections 1207.2(b) and 1207.21(b) require the regulated entities to maintain standards and procedures to ensure, “to the maximum extent possible,” the inclusion and utilization of diverse individuals and companies. The language “to the maximum extent possible” is used in HERA and is found in 12 U.S.C. §4520(b).

FHLBC requests that “to the maximum extent possible” be prefaced with the phrase “ensure minorities, women, and individuals with disabilities, and minority-, women-, and disabled-owned businesses have the opportunity to participate” in order to apply consistency as written in 12 C.F.R. §4.63. Further, FHLBC requests that the phrase “all types of contracts” be clarified to mean contracts for goods and services as written in 12 C.F.R. §361.6. Applying these standards to membership agreements does not appear consistent with the intention of this proposed rule.

We recommend that the FHFA consider similar diversity regulations issued by other Federal banking regulators in order to provide guidance regarding the proper balancing of the competing issues of FHLBC’s obligations described above, outreach efforts, and common business issues such as cost and reliability. For example, the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency states that “[t]he OCC awards contracts consistent with the principles of full and open competition and best value acquisition and with the concept of contracting for agency needs at the lowest practical cost.” See, 12 C.F.R. § 4.63.

Recognition of Demographic Differences

FHLBC asks that the FHFA recognize in the preamble to the final regulation that each FHLBank has differing demographics based on its location in relation to the other regulated entities, and even within its own district. Because of this fact, FHFA expectations regarding compliance and outreach must be tailored and evaluated based upon the regional demographics.

Impermissibility of Formal or Informal Quotas

It is noteworthy that neither 12 U.S.C. §4520 nor the proposed regulation permits or requires a regulated entity to create minimum quotas or applies other numbers-based models in promoting diversity in their employment and contracting processes. This is appropriate since these kinds of approaches could be unlawful under applicable Supreme Court decisions and Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, which requires equal employment opportunities for all genders and racial groups. We also note that regulations of the Department of Labor’s Office of Federal Contract Compliance Programs provide that “[q]uotas are expressly forbidden.”¹

A quota system becomes no more permissible if it is informal and enforced only through the FHFA examination process. In reviewing the regulated entities’ compliance with Section 1207, we recommend that FHFA examiners consider the robustness of the entity’s inclusion processes, not the end results of those processes. We request that the final regulation clarify that the FHFA will not expect the regulated entities to use quotas and numbers-based models in their inclusion efforts and will not permit agency personnel to promote the use of such an approach through the examination process.

Scope of Contracts Subject to Inclusion

Proposed Sections 1207.2(b) and 1207.22(a) provide that they apply to “all contracts for services,” while proposed Section 1207.23(b)(10) references soliciting contractors “to provide service” to the regulated entity.” (Emphasis added.) These provisions are consistent with 12 U.S.C. §4520(c), which provides that “this section shall apply to all contracts of a regulated entity for services of any kind . . .” (Emphasis added.)

However, other sections of the proposed regulation purport to apply to all contracts of a regulated entity, and not just contracts for services.² This interpretation is inappropriate and unworkable.

The regulated entities, like most companies, are party to a wide range of contracts that are not contracting opportunities under any traditional understanding. The beginning of a partial list of such contracts for an FHLBank would include: standby letters of credit; lien release and intercreditor agreements with competing secured creditors to ensure the priority of a security interest in collateral; customer contracts (including advances agreements and other contracts with members and contracts with recipients and beneficiaries of AHP grants and loans); contracts with principals in financial transactions (including contracts with swap counterparties and agreements with issuers and trustees evidencing MBS and other investments by a regulated entity);³ contracts evidencing debt or equity issued by a regulated entity to its investors; indemnification agreements in favor of employees, officers, and directors; and information sharing agreements between an FHLBank and state or federal banking regulators. Imposing procurement outreach obligations on contracts having nothing to do with procurement will make compliance impossible and detract from the effectiveness of our inclusion efforts on actual procurement contracting opportunities.⁴ Therefore, we request that the FHFA first clarify which contracts are within the purview of the proposed regulation, including clarifying the sections that discuss “contracts for services,” soliciting contractors “to provide service,” contracts “for services of any kind,” and “all types of contracts.” In addition, we request that the FHFA specifically exclude certain types of contracts (including contracts with members and other examples cited in the foregoing paragraph) from the provisions of this regulation. We believe the FHFA may do so because 12 U.S.C. §4520(b) requires inclusion “to the maximum extent possible.” It would be impossible for the FHLBanks to comply with particular provisions of the regulation for certain types of contracts.⁵ Additionally, reporting on all types of contracts, whether or not it is possible to control outreach efforts or the inclusion of minorities, women, or individuals with disabilities in those particular contracts, may significantly distort the results of an FHLBank’s outreach efforts since an FHLBank could not conduct outreach efforts for a significant portion of its contracts.

² See proposed Sections 1207.1 (definition of “business and activities” includes “all types of contracts”), 1207.21(b) (inclusion efforts to cover “all types of contracts”), 1207.21(b)(6) (nondiscrimination clause to be inserted in “each contract [a regulated entity] enters”), 1207.21(c)(1) (contracting outreach efforts “(a)pply to all contracts entered by the regulated entity”), and 1207.23(b)(11) (obligation to report “the number of contracts” entered with diverse businesses and individuals).

⁴ For example, how would a regulated entity comply with the requirement to consider diversity as a component when it sells debt or equity to investors, when it purchases investments for its own portfolio, or when it operates its core business of providing funding to its customers? Moreover, given the dollar amounts involved, these activities, if subject to the contractor reporting rules, would distort the reporting related to actual diverse vendor purchases by a regulated entity.

In addition, we note how critical it will be that each regulated entity ensures that its accounting systems for tracking spending match up with the FHFA’s ultimate definition of which contracts are subject to Sections 1207.23(b)(11) through (13) reporting requirements. Specifically, with respect to companies providing goods and services paid for by FHLBC employees or directors who are then reimbursed by FHLBC, we do not maintain the same level of detailed information regarding these companies as we would for vendors receiving payment directly from FHLBC.⁶ We expect this is true of the accounting systems for other regulated entities as well. Therefore, we request that, for purposes of reporting to the FHFA on contracting inclusion efforts, a regulated entity be permitted to exclude payments not made directly by a regulated entity to a vendor (e.g., employee or director reimbursement payments).

Reliance on Voluntary Self-Identification by Employees, Directors, and Individual Contractors

For individuals who are employees, directors or contractors, a regulated entity will need to rely (for both practical and legal reasons) on voluntary self-identification to determine whether such individuals are minorities, women, or persons with disabilities. Based on our experience, many such individuals will refuse to self-identify. It is also possible that some individuals may self-identify inaccurately. These two factors necessarily limit the accuracy of certain data and information required to be presented in the Section 1207.23 annual report.

We ask that the FHFA clarify that the requirement of Section 1207.23(a) for an officer to certify as to the accuracy of the data in the annual report may be conditioned on the fact that the regulated entities must rely on self-identification which may be absent or inaccurate and other reasonable limitations on the accuracy of a regulated entity's diversity reporting, to the extent such limitations are clearly identified in the annual report.

⁵ For example, it would be impossible for an FHLBank to comply with Section 1207.21(c) if that section applies to contracts with members, indemnification agreements with employees, and AHP grants.

In addition, FHLBC is concerned that the proposed regulation may conflict with the Americans with Disabilities Act ("ADA"), which bars companies from asking applicants for employment about disability status unless doing so is necessary under federal law to identify applicants or clients with disabilities in order to provide them with required special services, as opposed to data collection and reporting purposes. The ADA may also limit a company from making a similar inquiry of individuals who are being considered as potential contractors. To the extent this is true, a regulated entity will not, as a practical matter, be able to consider the disabled status of such individuals as a component when the regulated entity reviews and evaluates offers from individual contractors. Please clarify that a regulated entity's duty to comply with such a prohibition under the ADA would supersede its obligations under proposed Section 1207.21(c)(3).

II. Comments on Specific Sections of the Proposed Rule

1207.1 Definitions

Business and Activities

The definition of business and activities is very broad and makes compliance with various sections of the regulations virtually impossible.

HERA anticipates broad coverage, but not as broad as the definition set forth in the proposed regulations. HERA refers to "all business and activities of the regulated entity at all levels, including in procurement, insurance, and all types of contracts (including contracts for the issuance or guarantee of any debt, equity, or mortgage-related securities, the management of its mortgage and securities portfolios, the making of its equity investments, the purchase, sale and servicing of single- and multi-family mortgage loans, and the implementation of its affordable housing program and initiatives.)" 12 U.S.C. §4520(b).

By contrast, the definition in Section 1207.1 includes "operational, commercial, and economic endeavors of any kind, whether for profit or not for profit and whether regularly or irregularly engaged in by a regulated entity." While the list of examples in the section is consistent with the regulations, the "operational, commercial, and economic endeavors..." language encompasses anything a regulated entity does. This seems to exceed the scope of the rules requiring inclusion in employment and contracting. We request that the definition of "Business and Activities" be revised to use the language from HERA.

Disability

The definition of disability is problematic for several reasons.

First, HERA specifically limits its inclusion and diversity requirements to women and minorities, and specifically defines those terms. 46 U.S.C. §4520(b). It does not cover individuals with disabilities or disability-owned businesses. Thus, the regulations exceed the requirements of HERA to the extent they include individuals with disabilities or disabled-owned businesses. Protections for individuals with disabilities are provided under other federal laws including the ADA. While FHLBC respects the intentions of the FHFA to help other potentially disadvantaged groups, FHLBC requests that the FHFA remove all references in the final regulation to disabilities.

Should the FHFA retain references to disability in the final regulation, the definition of disability creates ambiguity because it assigns the definition of “disability” with the same meaning as that provided by 29 C.F.R. §§1630.2(g) and 1630.3, regulations interpreting the ADA.⁷ That definition includes individuals “regarded as” having an impairment that substantially limits a major life activity. It is not clear, in the context of the proposed regulations, how someone would be “regarded as,” and this has been a subject of great confusion in the case law. Indeed, under the pre-2009 version of the ADA, several courts of appeals held that an employer had an obligation to accommodate individuals regarded as having disabilities. The revision to the ADA has eliminated that issue, but we expect continuing litigation over a company’s obligations with respect to those “regarded as” having a disability.

Disabled-owned business

The definition of disabled-owned business is problematic, in part, because it includes businesses more than 50 percent owned or controlled by a person with a disability, and businesses for which more than 50 percent of the net profit or loss accrues to one or more persons with a disability.

One practical issue is that this information is not readily available to the public. As discussed above, identifying those businesses would require individuals to self-identify as having disabilities. As a result, businesses with individuals willing to self-identify will receive the benefits of the regulations while individuals not willing to self-identify would not. This approach does not seem reasonably calculated to include all disabled individuals of disabled-owned businesses in contracting opportunities.

⁷ Under 29 C.F.R. Part 1630.2(g), “Disability” means, with respect to an individual, (a) a physical or mental impairment that substantially limits one or more of the major life activities of such individual; (2) a record of such impairment; (3) or being regarded as having such an impairment. Note that the regulations under the ADA are in the process of revision and have not yet been finalized.

Moreover, because the definition of disability includes individuals regarded as having a qualifying impairment, the definition of disabled-owned business includes businesses where individuals “regarded as” having a disability own or control more than 50 percent of the business or are responsible for more than 50 percent of the net profit or loss. The “regarded as” prong of the ADA definition of disability does not make sense in this context.

Minority

The definition of minority is inconsistent with the statutory language, which incorporates the definition of minorities in Section 1204(c) of the Financial Institutions Reform, Recovery and Enforcement Act of 1989. That section defines the term minority as “any Black American, Native American, Hispanic American, or Asian American.” By contrast, the regulations define minority as Black or African American, American Indian or Alaska Native, Hispanic or Latino American, and Native Hawaiian or Other Pacific Islander. We request that the FHFA revise the definition of “Minority” to match the HERA definition.

1207.20 Structure of a Regulated Entity’s Designated Office of Minority and Women Inclusion

Proposed Section 1207.20 requires each regulated entity⁸ to establish and maintain an office of minority and women inclusion (or designate and maintain an existing office) to perform the responsibilities under the proposed regulation, under the direction of an officer of the regulated entity who reports directly to either the Chief Executive Officer or the Chief Operating Officer or the equivalent.

We ask that the FHFA clarify that regulated entity employees responsible for a portion of the regulated entity’s compliance processes need not formally report to the officer directing the entity’s inclusion efforts and that the officer’s role under Section 1207.20(a) is to coordinate the regulated entity’s inclusion efforts. For example, a regulated entity may designate its head of human resources as its Section 1207.20(a) responsible officer, but then rely on a separate accounting department to track diverse contractor spend amounts or on a separate procurement department to meet certain of the contracting requirements. Thus some of the responsibilities under Section 1207 may be performed by employees not within the regulated entity’s office of minority and women inclusion.

⁸ For convenience, each reference to “regulated entity” in this comment letter should be read to include the Office of Finance unless the context clearly indicates otherwise.

1207.20(b) Adequate Resources

FHLBC believes that it is unnecessary for the FHFA to adopt language in the regulation that requires each FHLBank to provide sufficient resources to fulfill the duties prescribed by the regulation. The text of HERA does not require this language, and current FHFA regulations do not contain similar provisions. Unless the FHFA adopts similar language throughout all its regulations, an allocation requirement to ensure regulatory compliance adds no additional regulatory requirements while creating an open question as to why the FHFA has not required sufficient resource allocation by FHLBC to ensure compliance with other regulations.

1207.21(a) Equal Opportunity Notice - Notices Provided in Alternative Media

Requirements in Sections 1207.21(a) and (b) that relate to the publication of the policies and procedures that require media (Braille & audio) would be burdensome requirements to comply with. Requirements assume that each FHLBank would update its EEO notice, policies and procedures, and job postings on an ongoing basis to be both Braille and audio accessible, regardless of whether FHLBC has employees or applicants who are vision or hearing impaired. FHLBC is cognizant of the ADA and where employees or applicants request accommodations, FHLBC will comply with all its legal obligations.

1207.21(a) Equal Opportunity Notice – Classifications

The prescribed equal opportunity notice set forth in Section 1207.21(a) exceeds the requirements of HERA. It includes “race, color, national origin, sex, religion, age, disability status, or genetic information.” HERA limits inclusion and diversity requirements to women and racial minorities and the proposed rule should be revised to conform to the statutory scope.

1207.21(b)(3) Internal Procedures to Resolve Complaints in Discrimination in Employment and Contracting Which Shall Include Mandatory Alternative Dispute Resolution Techniques

FHLBC asks that the FHFA remove this section from the final regulation. The provisions of this section relating to resolving disputes in contracting run afoul of the contracting rights of the FHLBanks as set forth by the Federal Home Loan Bank Act (“FHLB Act”) at 12 U.S.C. 1432, the contracting rights of the vendor, and Section 1207.3 of this proposed regulation.

First, the proposed regulation interferes with FHLBC’s power “to make contracts,” an explicit right granted to the FHLBanks in the FHLB Act. See 12 U.S.C. §1432(a). In order for FHLBC to use an alternative dispute resolution with its vendors, such language must be included in the contract. Proposed Section 1207.21(b)(3) represents a restriction on FHLBC's right to make contracts inasmuch as it would require each FHLBank to enter into only those contracts that include ADR provisions. This narrows of FHLBC's statutory rights under the Bank Act, which only Congress may do.

In addition, Federal banking regulators have been cautious of the use of ADR processes with regard to certain contracts such as external audit engagement letters. The Interagency Advisory on the Unsafe and Unsound Use of Limitation of Liability Provisions in External Audit Engagement Letters ("the Advisory") was concerned that mandatory ADR provisions could limit the liability of the auditor. The Advisory noted that "[b]y agreeing in advance to submit disputes to mandatory ADR, financial institutions may waive the right to full discovery, limit appellate review, or limit or waive other rights and protections available in ordinary litigation proceedings." Although the Advisory did not find ADR provisions to be unsafe and unsound on their face, the Advisory stated that federal banking agencies provide guidance to their institutions to "carefully review mandatory ADR and jury trial provisions in engagement letters, as well as any agreements regarding rules of procedure, and to fully comprehend the ramifications of any agreement to waive any available remedies."

Furthermore, this section interferes with vendors' contracting rights. Many contractors disfavor ADR clauses for a variety of reasons, including potentially high costs and perceived biases against full recoveries that may otherwise be available in a court of law. To the extent that the proposed regulation requires the FHLBanks to attempt to resolve complaints through an ADR process, which could necessitate a renegotiation of existing contracts to add ADR language, the vendor could claim an interference with its contracting rights.

Finally, with regard to vendors who were not awarded contracts by FHLBC, this section runs counter to the proposed Section 1207.3, which states that "the regulations in this part do not . . . create any right or benefit . . . by any party against . . . a regulated entity or the Office of Finance, their officers, employees or agents, or any other person." Granting failed vendors the opportunity to use ADR processes would be granting a right and a benefit, and is, therefore, in contravention of the protections of Section 1207.3.

The provisions of Section 1207.21(3) relating to complaints of discrimination in employment should also be removed from the final regulation. This section stands in opposition to recent legislative initiatives to preclude mandatory arbitration of employment-related claims. For example, the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009 ("ARRA") precludes predispute arbitration agreements for claims under the ARRA employee whistleblower provision, except for certain disputes arising under a collective bargaining agreement. See American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009, Pub. L. No. 111-5, Section 1553(d)(1)-(3). Similarly, the final version of the FY 2010 Defense Appropriations Bill, which President Obama is expected to sign into law, prohibits federal contractors on certain defense projects from requiring employees and independent contractors to agree to arbitrate certain employment discrimination and harassment claims as a condition of employment. See H.R. 3326, 111th Cong. (2009). In short, the proposed section stands against the current movement away from mandatory arbitration procedures and would oppose recent legislative efforts to preserve all means available to resolve complaints of discrimination.

Finally, FHLBC notes that the proposed regulation does not require the agency to utilize ADR in the contracting context.

1207.21(b)(4) Requests for Reasonable Accommodations

The reasonable accommodation provision in Section 1207.21(b)(4) falls outside the scope of HERA. Moreover, this provision, as applied, would create substantive rights not otherwise available under applicable law, which is inconsistent with Section 1207.3.⁹ For example, the language anticipates accommodation of all individuals with disabilities for all purposes, not, for example, reasonable accommodation for qualified individuals with disabilities that does not impose an undue hardship per the ADA. Regulated entities are not required to accommodate all disabilities under current, applicable law.

FHLBC asks that the FHFA clarify the term “effective procedures.”

1207.21(b)(6) Material Clauses in Contracts

Section 1207.21(b)(6) of the proposed rule would require a regulated entity to include in each contract it enters into with a contractor “a material clause committing a contractor to practice principles of equal opportunity and non-discrimination in all its business activities” FHLBC would point out that as one of 12 individual FHLBanks, neither it nor the FHLBanks collectively have the contracting power of the federal government. FHLBC will have no leverage with many critical vendors where FHLBC is a relatively small customer. Examples of such vendors include computer hardware and software vendors such as Microsoft, Dell, and Sun Microsystems; financial counterparties, including the largest banks and brokerage houses; as well as insurance companies.

FHLBC requests that this section be removed as over-burdensome and ultimately unenforceable. FHLBC enters into contracts with operationally critical vendors without the ability to edit or amend the contract. Therefore, FHLBank is unable to comply with this section. Further, FHLBC does not have the ability to monitor or enforce compliance with such a requirement. Due to the above-mentioned reasons, we request the entirety of Section 1207.21(b)(6) be removed.

⁹ Section 1207.3 provides that the regulations are not intended to create any right or benefit, substantive or procedural, enforceable at law, in equity, or through administrative proceeding

1207.21(c) Outreach for Contracting

FHLBC requests “all contracts” as referenced in Section 1207.21(c)(1) be clarified to mean contracts for goods and services as written in 12 C.F.R. §361.6 and implemented by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (“FDIC”). Applying these standards to membership agreements and other non-goods and services contracts does not appear consistent with the intention of this proposed rule.

1207.21(c)(2) and 1207.23(b)(10) Outreach for Contracting/Annual Reports

FHLBC respectfully requests that the FHFA clarify the requirement in proposed Section 1207.21(c)(2) requiring publication of contracting opportunities designed to encourage contractors that are minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and minority-, women-, and disabled-owned businesses to submit offers or bid for the award of such contracts. FHLBC believes that it is extremely useful to include these individuals and businesses wherever applicable in the RFP process for specific bids which require an RFP be issued based on each FHLBank’s policies. However, each FHLBank’s ability to publish RFP’s to such businesses depends upon multiple factors, including, but not limited to, the presence of contractors that are minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and minority-, women-, and disabled-owned businesses that provide such goods and services in a specific geographic area, and successful identification of such businesses. The term publication can be misleading as each geographic area does not necessarily offer trade publications that target minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and minority-, women-, and disabled-owned businesses in every possible field of business.

FHLBC also requests that the FHFA clarify similar language in proposed Section 1207.23(b)(10) which requires a description of activities to solicit or advertise for contractors to provide service to the regulated entity. In this case, the term “advertise” can be misleading for the same reasons as the term publication referenced above.

1207.22(1)(a) Reports

Under the Proposed Rule, the FHFA requires each regulated entity to, within 90 days after the effective date, submit a preliminary status report describing the actions taken thus far in establishing this office and the plans for and progress toward implementation. The final regulation should enumerate the expected deliverables to be provided in the preliminary status report. Since this is a preliminary report, compliance deadlines should be enumerated outside of this status reporting process. Specific guidance to assist a regulated entity in meeting its compliance objectives should be communicated out to all regulated entities so everyone understands the compliance expectations. In addition, the FHFA should provide templates for the regulated entities to complete contemporaneously with the publication of the final rule to ensure each regulated entity is providing the exact information required.

1207.22(c) Annual Reporting Cycle

Proposed Section 1207.22(c) establishes a calendar year reporting period and requires each regulated entity to submit its annual report by February 1 of each year (i.e., one month after the end of the reporting period).

FHLBC requests the annual report be submitted on or before April 1, of each year (and annually on this date thereafter) to allow for the effective compilation and reporting of the previous year's data. FHLBC believes that the one-month period referenced in the proposed rule does not provide adequate time for the compilation of requested information. Further, FHLBank feels the annual reporting should begin April 1, 2012, not 2011 as prescribed in the proposed rule. Reporting on a significant period of time prior to the effective date of this rule appears unnecessary.

1207.22(a)(1) Timing for the Initial Reports

The proposed regulation would require both a preliminary status report within 90 days after a final regulation becomes effective and the initial annual report to be submitted by February 1, 2011.

Most of the FHLBanks' efforts to comply with the diversity regulation will of necessity begin only after a final regulation is issued, since it is impossible to know in advance what changes the FHFA may effect in the final regulation in response to comments received. Given this fact, it would be unfair and counterproductive to ask the FHLBanks to report on their compliance efforts for periods preceding the effective date of the final regulation (i.e., before the 12 U.S.C. §4520(a) "standards and requirements" are established by the Director).

We believe the best approach would be (i) retaining the requirement to provide a preliminary status report within 90 days after final regulation effective date while (ii) modifying the initial annual reporting obligation such that the first annual report would cover the months from the effective date to December 31 and the first full 12-month reporting period.

For example, under this approach, if the final regulation becomes effective on September 1, 2010, and the agency retains the January 1 to December 31 reporting period, but extends the annual report due date to April 1 as requested above, for the preceding reporting period, then, (a) the preliminary status report would be due December 1, 2010 and (b) the initial annual report would be due April 1, 2012 covering the October 1, 2010 to December 31, 2011 reporting period.

1207.21(c)(2) Contracting Opportunity Publication Requirements

FHLBC requests the FHFA confirm that in establishing standards and procedures for publication of contracting opportunities under proposed Section 1207.21(c)(2) each regulated entity retains the discretion to create reasonable exceptions from a general rule of publication. For example, a regulated entity could carve out and not require publication of contracts below a certain dollar threshold, contracts for time sensitive engagements, and contracts for confidential engagements (e.g., for a law firm to conduct a sensitive investigation at a regulated entity).

1207.22(d) Annual Summary

FHLBC requests clarification as to the difference between “third-party contractors” and “contractors that are minorities....” We ask that either the FHFA clarify what is meant by “third-party contractor” either in the final regulation or to provide guidance in the preamble.

1207.23(b)(3) Reports Showing Disability Classifications

Section 1207.23(b)(3) would require, among other things, that a regulated entity annually report to the FHFA the number of persons with disabilities applying for employment with the regulated entity.

However, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) advises employers against making disability-related inquiries prior to making an offer of employment, and therefore, the regulated entity will not be able to provide data showing the disability classification of individuals who apply for but are not offered employment as requested by this section. In fact, asking for this data would violate the ADA. See e.g., EEOC Notice No. 915.002, Enforcement Guidance: Preemployment Disability-Related Questions and Medical Examinations (October 10, 1995), available at www.eeoc.gov/policy/docs/preemp.html; Questions and Answers: Enforcement Guidance on Disability-Related Inquiries and Medical Examinations of Employees Under the Americans With Disabilities Act (ADA), available at www.eeoc.gov/policy/docs/qanda-inquiries.html; EEOC Enforcement Guidance: Disability-Related Inquiries and Medical Examinations of Employees Under the Americans With Disabilities Act (“ADA”), available at www.eeoc.gov/policy/docs/guidance-inquiries.html.

As such, Section 1207.23(b)(3) should be modified to remove this requirement.

Sections 1207.23(b)(3), (7), and (8) Collection of Data Related to Job Applicants and Employee Promotions

The data required by Sections 1207.23(b)(3), (7) and (8) appears to encompass all job applicants and employees regardless of whether the individual is qualified for the specific job position sought. Specifically, these sections seek data regarding the number of individuals who apply for employment with the regulated entity by minority, gender, and disability classification, as compared to the number of individuals hired for employment by minority, gender, and disability classification, without regard to whether the individual meets the minimum qualifications required for the job position at issue. The same problem exists with regard to promotions.

By comparison, the EEOC and the Department of Labor's Office of Federal Contract Compliance Programs have focused on comparative analysis by utilizing a concept where the employer can apply minimum job qualifications to eliminate unqualified persons, thus making the comparison between qualified applicants and those chosen for the position more reflective of real-life determinations. Otherwise, an "apples versus oranges" problem arises and comparisons between those who apply and those who are chosen mean very little.

Therefore, we request that the final regulation clarify that a regulated entity may apply minimum job qualifications to eliminate unqualified persons, for purposes of reporting the number of individuals applying for employment or promotion under Sections 1207.23(b)(3), (7) and (8).

1207.23(b)(5) Collections of Data Regarding Terminations

Because many FHLBanks have a small number of employees with few separations, FHLBC is concerned that the proposed rule's requirement for regulated entities to report employee separations by disability classification may make the identity of a separated employee and his or her disability easily ascertainable. In such circumstances, the sharing of this information would conflict with the goals under the ADA and Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act ("HIPAA") to keep such information confidential and with Section 1207.22 of the proposed rule, which provides that the "FHFA is not requiring, and does not desire, that reports under this part contain personally identifiable information." We request that this requirement be eliminated.

1207.23(b)(10) Annual Reports – Outreach Activities

FHLBC respectfully requests that the FHFA remove the provisions in proposed Section 1207.23(b)(10) requiring reporting on outreach activities to low-income and inner-city populations. The provisions of 12 U.S.C. §4520 that apply to the regulated entities focus on the inclusion and utilization of minorities and women, but do not require outreach to low-income or inner-city populations. Although an FHLBank might find such outreach useful at times as part of its program to include and utilize minorities and women, such program would not necessarily need to include outreach to low-income and inner-city populations and, alternatively, outreach to low-income and inner-city populations would not necessarily achieve the purposes of 12 U.S.C. §4520 as it applies to the regulated entities. The FHFA appropriately included expanded workforce diversity requirements for the FHFA as mandated by 12 U.S.C. §4520(f), which requires the FHFA to sponsor and recruit at job fairs in urban communities. The FHFA did not impose such requirements on the FHLBanks because Congress specifically limited such requirements to the FHFA. Similarly, the FHFA should exclude the regulated entities from reporting on inner-city outreach activities since the provisions requiring recruitment in urban communities apply only to the FHFA.

FHLBC also requests that the FHFA remove the provision requiring the regulated entities to report on activities to provide financial literacy education. Such duties are only required for the FHFA as provided in 12 U.S.C. §4520(f), and the regulated entities should not be required to provide financial literacy education since Congress specifically limited the requirement to provide financial literacy education to the FHFA. Proposed Section 1207.10(c)(4) requires the FHFA to, where feasible, partner “with inner-city high schools, girl’s [sic] schools, and high schools with majority minority populations to establish or enhance financial literacy programs and provide mentoring.” Financial literacy education is substantially beyond the scope of 12 U.S.C. §4520 as it applies to the regulated entities, and accordingly the regulated entities should not be required to engage in, nor report on, financial literacy education activities since the provisions on financial literacy education apply only to the FHFA.

Finally, FHLBC requests that the FHFA remove, or in the alternative clarify, the requirement that the regulated entities report on efforts to provide technical assistance for participation in the contracting process. Although the FHFA set forth an affirmative duty requiring the FHFA to offer technical assistance in proposed Section 1207.11(b)(2), the regulated entities are appropriately excluded from such requirement since they are not U.S. government agencies with a duty to provide technical assistance to the public. Since the regulated entities are not required to provide technical assistance, and since such assistance is outside the scope of 12 U.S.C. §4520, the regulated entities should not be required to report on technical assistance activities. Alternatively, if the FHFA determines that such reporting is necessary, FHLBC respectfully requests the FHFA clarify which types of activities constitute technical assistance.

1207.23(b)(11) and (12) Annual Reports – Cumulative Data

Proposed Sections 1207.23(b)(11) and (12) require the regulated entities to report to the FHFA cumulative data on the number of contracts entered into and the amounts paid to minority or minority-owned business, women or women-owned business and disabled or disabled-owned businesses contractors by FHLBC. FHLBC believes that reporting only on money spent or contracts entered into does not provide the whole picture of FHLBC outreach activities. For example, FHLBC sponsors events at job fairs for minority, women and disabled individuals as well as minority, women and disabled-owned business. These sponsorships may not lead to FHLBC contracting with an individual or business, but FHLBC is nonetheless supporting the mission of these job fairs and the individuals and businesses involved with the job fairs.

Thus, FHLBC requests that the FHFA acknowledge that outreach activities such as sponsorships are important and should be reported by an FHLBank in its annual report.

1207.23(b)(18) and (19) Annual Reports

Proposed Sections 1207.23(b)(18) and (19) require the regulated entities to provide narratives in the annual report identifying and analyzing successful and unsuccessful activities, describing the progress made from the previous year, discussing areas where improvement is necessary, and describing anticipated efforts and results expected in the succeeding year. Despite proposed Section 1207.3, FHLBC is concerned that providing such a narrative may have unintended consequences that could lead to litigation despite a good faith effort by the regulated entity to comply with the regulation.

FHLBC believes that the information requested by proposed Sections 1207.23(b)(18) and (19) is beyond the scope of 12 U.S.C. §4520(d) and is not necessary to achieve its purposes. Information concerning an FHLBank's success or lack of success in achieving the purpose of regulations, and areas in which efforts need to improve, would be best addressed in the confidential examination process rather than a report that might be subject to public disclosure under the Freedom of Information Act. In such case, such disclosures could create an increased threat of litigation or, at a minimum, increased scrutiny which potentially harmful to the reputation and safety and soundness of the regulated entities.

FHLBC accordingly requests that the FHFA remove proposed Sections 1207.23(b)(18) and (19). In the alternative, if the FHFA believes the information is necessary for a complete report, FHLBC respectfully requests the regulation to specify that the information received pursuant to the reporting requirements in proposed Sections 1207.23(b)(18) and (19) shall be considered "Unpublished Information" as defined in 12 C.F.R. §911.1 and shall be protected as described in 12 C.F.R Part 911.

Thank you for the opportunity to comment on this proposed rule.

Sincerely,

Mary Jane Brown
